The Budget Game

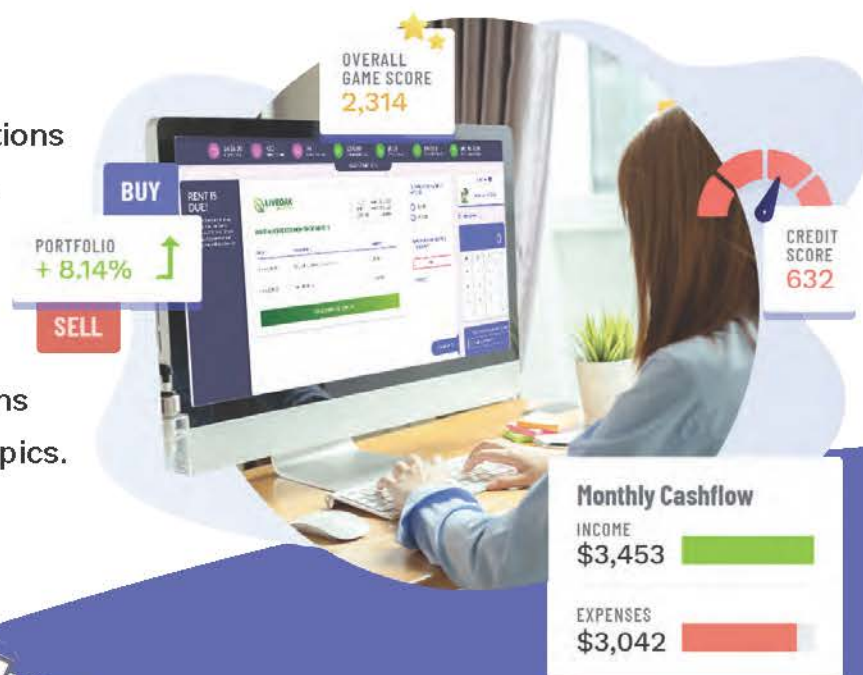

REAL-LIFE SCENARIOS WITH CONSEQUENCES

An engaging learning experience that develops your students' life skills.

Bring the Budget Game to life YOUR way!

What's Included

- 12+ virtual game months
- 21 in-game financial literacy lessons
- Interactive mini-games
- Interactive apartment to view living conditions
- Realistic bank and credit card statements
- Customize income and bills to your local area
- Detailed reports on student progress
- Recommended class activities, lesson plans and grading rubrics on personal finance topics.

OBJECTIVES

The goal of the game is to build an emergency savings fund with monthly savings targets.

Students learn how to make responsible buying decisions that balance their needs vs their wants. They are encouraged to purchase products and services that foster a higher quality of life.

Students progress through 12 virtual months of the game. Each month takes about 20 minutes to complete. Every few days there are pop-up Life Event cards with unplanned expenses. This puts pressure on their budget, so they realize the importance of planning ahead!

STUDENTS LEARN

Setting and Keeping Savings Goals

Our game focuses on how to build a budget and maintain savings goals. The scenarios are realistic so students are ready to face them in the real world. We emphasize building an emergency savings fund early and to pay yourself first.

They earn the most points by saving at least 10% of their income every month.

Realistic Choices with Long-Term Impact

Students will be faced with hundreds of spending decisions over the course of the game. Every decision has long-term consequences on how the game plays out. This gives each student a unique path in contrast to the rest of their class. What an excellent way to start class discussions!

Students Manage Credit Cards and Build Their Credit Scores

Most budgeting games are focused on savings only, which is unrealistic. In the StockTrak™ Budget Game, students learn about balancing needs vs wants, and how to use credit responsibly to build their credit score. They can also learn the hard way what happens when they don't pay their bills on time and incur late fees.

Beyond Saving & Credit-Real Decision Making

Our game focuses not just on credit and savings goals, but also building and maintaining a healthy "Quality of Life". Other budget games reward students for saving as much as possible. We emphasize that most spending decisions don't have a clear "right" or "wrong" answer, but build on each other to paint a complete picture of the student's financial well-being.

OBJECTIVES

Students get valuable experience building a virtual portfolio that mimics how real-world investors save for retirement. Your students will get experience trading and investing in US securities with real-time prices. They will experience all the ups and downs of the business and economic cycles and how changes in the market affect their portfolios.

Students are provided introductory videos to learn the basics of how to research companies and stocks, how to trade stocks, bonds, and mutual funds, and how to build a diversified portfolio.

STUDENTS LEARN

Building a Portfolio of Stocks, Bonds and Mutual Funds

Students can trade on margin to see the risks of becoming over-leveraged, and use different order types like market orders, short selling or even day trading. Your students can practice their investing strategies before making mistakes with their real money.

The Importance of Portfolio Diversification

Teachers can set diversification rules for their class. This will require students to invest no more than a specific percentage (%) of their portfolio in one stock, or students are required to purchase a certain amount of other assets.

Conducting Thorough Investing Research

PersonalFinanceLab™ has a full suite of professional-grade built-in research tools, so students can do their market analysis all in one place! We have smart symbol lookups, trading ideas, stock screeners with interactive charts, full financial statements, Wall Street analyst ratings, historical prices, accounting ratios, and much more for every company.

Weekly Deposits

You can start your class with a low starting cash, like $100 or $1000, and then every week your students get a weekly deposit that you also choose. This transforms the experience to mimic how real-world investors put money aside into their retirement accounts every month. Students will need to rebalance their portfolios instead of passively holding a few stocks they purchased on the first day of class.
